Short Film contest

The 12th edition of “Salento Finibus Terrae”, the international short film festival moves across several towns over the weekend and concludes on July 16th. Created and directed by Romeo Conte, it boasts also the patronage of Unicef and Unesco. The festival chose 97 films to screen from over 600 short films submitted from around the globe. From Human Rights to Horror, the categories are many, as are the VIPs from the world of film. As Conte says: “Contrary to the opinion of some, culture does produce wealth,” and this festival is a significant testimony to the cultural richness of Salento (www.salentofinibusterrae.com).
